In the Memorandum of Courses or Program of Studies, courses that span multiple semesters in which students are making adequate progress.

The I grade should not be used for thesis and dissertation hours or for courses that span multiple semesters in which students are making adequate progress.

In Progress (“I”) and No Progress (“XP”) Grades

The IP and XP grades may be assigned at the discretion of the instructor in consultation with the student. The IP grade indicates satisfactory work in progress or effort as determined by the student's advisor and/or supervisory committee. The XP grade indicates lack of satisfactory progress as determined by the student's advisor and/or supervisory committee. Consecutive XP grades may result in the graduate committee taking action to inform the student and Graduate Studies regarding continuation of the student's graduate study. No direct academic action will be imposed for earning one or more XP grades. However, departments may use a series of XP grades as a basis for recommending termination of the student from a graduate program.

Graduate students taking undergraduate classes for deficiencies generally have a grade requirement set by the department. However, if no specific standard has been set, graduate students are required to meet the same standard set for undergraduate students. If the class is taken Pass/No pass, the equivalent of a C or better is required to receive a grade of P.

Graduate students in courses that span multiple semesters in which students are making adequate progress.
Grades

Graduate Council shall be final and is not subject to further appeal beyond the campus.

- If the instructor’s grade is overturned, the instructor of record has the right of appeal, in writing, at the same successive levels of review.

SOURCE: UNL Graduate Council (March 9, 1993; revised August 16, 2018)