Welcome to the 2025-2026 Course Catalog for the Nebraska College of Technical Agriculture!

On behalf of the NCTA Faculty, Associate Dean Jennifer McConville and myself, we are thankful that you have chosen NCTA. You will find a warm, friendly, and fun atmosphere in Curtis, Nebraska with a dedicated staff.

Throughout a vibrant 117-year history, our Aggie family of faculty and staff here in Curtis has greeted generations of students to this hand on, rural campus. Together, we have forged common bonds and created opportunities for so many students. It is our hope that you take advantage of the many opportunities that NCTA has to offer!

Our NCTA Course Catalog is the in-depth guide for each facet of your student experience. From understanding campus policies and curriculum, to knowing the year's schedule of events, locating listings of academic divisions and courses, or finding the ideal student club or organization to join, all of these resources are detailed in this easy-to use electronic format.

No more thumbing through hundreds of pages in a thick catalog. It's all right here, easily searchable and accessible. Please refer to your online catalog throughout the year.

Our Student Services team members in admissions, residence life, registration, advising and recruiting are all on board to assist you with whatever you need. Student success is #1 at NCTA!

It is important to rely on your advisors to help you navigate your courses to ensure that you successfully fulfill your requirements for graduation. They are more than instructors; they want to get to know and understand your goals so they can help you best prepare for your career path into the workforce, obtain board certification or for your transition to pursuing a 4-year degree.

When you are in Ag Hall for classes, picking up a parking pass or perhaps securing campus employment at the business office, please stop by Dean's Office Suite on Second Floor and say hello. We look forward to welcoming you to campus and meeting you in person.
